How we work with you

Learning about you

We welcome the chance to talk to you about your story and how we can best assist you. You can also give consent for someone else to speak to us on your behalf and nominate a Registered Supporter.

Your Service Plan

We will work with you to develop your service plan. This plan will focus on your goals. To make sure we stay up to date with your needs, we will review this plan with you every year.

Your Support Worker

Our trusted workers assist clients with a range of different needs. All staff undergo pre-employment checks which are being updated throughout their employment.

At the end of their shift, your worker will ask you to sign a time sheet on their mobile device. This time sheet will show the day, and the length of time they spent with you. By signing this, you are saying that you agree and we will charge you for the provided service. Please call us if there is an issue with what you have been charged.

Changes to your services

You need to be home for your service to take place. You can call us if you require a change to your service. To avoid a cancellation fee, please let us know at least 24 hours before your service, if you would like to cancel.

There may be times where we have to change the day or time that we visit you. For example, during high heat days or during public holidays. We will give you as much notice as possible.

Do you have a question about your service?

Call us if you interested in inquiring about an additional service. You can find a full list of our services on page 9.

Lively

Darebin Council has partnered with Lively – a vibrant not-for-profit that supports Council clients through intergenerational programs:

Lively programs pair older community members with enthusiastic, big-hearted young Helpers (18–25) who bring joy, companionship, and practical assistance into their lives.

Lively provide flexible, personalised support for older adults in their communities, empowering older people to stay connected, creative, and curious while thriving at home longer. All relationships are built on equality and mutual exchange, where both Helpers and elders contribute to and benefit from each other's experiences and knowledge.

Lively do this via in-home support and community-based tech help programs, delivered in partnership with Darebin Council.

Using this intergenerational model, Lively is creating a society where both younger and older people feel valued, connected, and supported.

How to get started:

Visit lively.org.au or scan the QR code.

Here's what we can help out with!

Technology

Trying to find your way around a new device, or learn about the online world? Lively Helpers provide friendly, safe and approachable help to grow your confidence.

Social gardening

If you're looking to bring a bit of life and brightness to your garden, Lively Helpers can be your extra pair of hands to bring some joy back to your yard.

Personal projects

Don't be afraid to think creatively! Let a Lively Helper help you paint that outdoor furniture, organise your photos, write your life story, or start a new craft project.

Transport can be provided

"We did heaps of stuff in our last session! Rebekah helped me with locating emails, and then getting them onto my mobile phone, then we re-framed a picture and then re-potted some cyclamens. A very productive session! I love the variety."

"I've learned how to communicate with my children and grandchildren via video calls, it's been really nice to see their faces. I'm finding out things that I never thought I could do. I did a European tour 5 years ago, after a few sessions with my Helper, I could track my trip and retrace my steps."

"We always find a range of topics to discuss whilst we work in the garden together, or when we sit and have a break. I have had two marvellous benefits from this program- one a much tidier garden than I would have ever achieved, and two, the benefit of working with my Helper, Temby."

Lively partners with local Councils and aged care providers to provide services, so that older Australians can access government support to pay for Lively Helper sessions. Reach out to find out if we're working with a partner in your area!

What is open disclosure?

Everyone in aged care has the right to be safe and treated with dignity and respect.

Open disclosure is a conversation your aged care provider must have with you if something goes wrong that has or could have caused you harm.

Open disclosure can help you to speak up about issues and how they have affected you. You can also make suggestions to your aged care provider so together you can resolve any issues.

Open disclosure requires your aged care provider to take action when something goes wrong. They must:

Check that you are ok and respond quickly to provide the support you need

Acknowledge the issue and apologise

Find out and explain what happened

Learn from the experience and make improvements

When these open conversations happen, you should be supported to take part in any discussions.

This means your provider must engage with you and communicate with you honestly and openly. This will help you to make informed choices so that you can get the most out of your care.

You have the right to access an aged care advocate to support you during these discussions. An advocate is a person that can stand beside you or work on your behalf to represent your wishes.

If you're not comfortable speaking to your aged care provider or you're not satisfied with their response, it is important that you talk about it. There are services available to help you including the Older Persons Advocacy Network (OPAN). You can call OPAN on 1800 700 600.

You can also raise a concern or make a complaint by contacting the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission on 1800 951 822.

What is dignity of risk?

Dignity of risk is another way of saying you have the right to live the life you choose, even if your choices involve some risk.

If something you want to do involves some risk to you, your aged care provider should support you and your representative to understand the risks and manage them. They should also respect your wishes and preferences.

Your aged care provider should:

Make sure you understand the risks to you and others

Work with you to manage those risks

Respect your decisions

Dignity of risk is a big part of person-centred care.

This means you have the right to make decisions about your care and services.

Dignity of risk is included in the Aged Care Quality Standards. These Standards require your provider to recognise and respect your unique identity, culture, social connections, wellbeing and needs.

This will help you to maintain your independence.

Your aged care provider should support you to take risks, so you can live your best life.

If you, your family or representatives have concerns about the care you or someone else is receiving, it is important to talk about it. Talk to your aged care service, the Older Persons Advocacy Network on 1800 700 600 or the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission on 1800 951 822.

Let's stay safe together.

What is the Serious Incident Response Scheme?

Information for home services care recipients

1800 951 822
agedcarequality.gov.au

The Serious Incident Response Scheme (or SIRS) helps reduce the risk of abuse and neglect for people who receive aged care.

On 1 December 2022, the SIRS was extended from residential aged care to include home care and flexible aged care delivered in a home or community setting.

What home services providers must do

Your provider must record all incidents that occur when delivering aged care and services in their incident management system. This includes recording an incident that nearly happened or when someone suspects that something happened. This is so they can learn from the incident and improve their practices so that incidents don't occur again.

Your home services provider must notify the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission (the Commission) of certain reportable incidents that happen while delivering your care and services. The Commission will determine if any regulatory action should be taken.

What is a reportable incident?

A serious incident your provider must report to the Commission could be:

- Unreasonable use of force – like kicking, punching or rough handling
- Unlawful sexual contact or inappropriate sexual conduct – like stalking, making sexual advances or unwanted sexual touching
- Psychological or emotional abuse – like yelling, name calling or ignoring
- Stealing or financial coercion by a staff member – like stealing money or pressuring you to give money
- Neglect – like not giving you the care you need to stay well
- Inappropriate use of restrictive practices – like using physical force or medication to restrict your freedom or movement

- Missing consumers – where a care recipient goes missing
- Unexpected death – like someone dying unexpectedly because they did not receive proper care and services.

What should I expect from my provider?

If an incident like this happens to you while you are receiving care, staff must:

- check that you are okay, talk to you about what happened and work with you to resolve the issue
- record all incidents in their incident management system
- report serious incidents to the Commission.

Your aged care rights

You have the right to safe, quality care and to live without abuse or neglect. It's always okay to speak up if you are concerned about an issue or incident.

Any incidents or concerns can be raised by you, your representative or by staff to your home services provider. You should not be treated differently if you raise a concern or exercise any of your rights under the Charter of Aged Care Rights.

Where can I go for help?

If you do not feel comfortable talking to your provider or were not satisfied when you did, you can contact the Commission or an advocacy service for help and support.

Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission

You can raise concerns or make a complaint about the aged care services you receive by calling the Commission on 1800 951 822 (free call). You can also contact us by online form, email or post.

Translation services

If translation services are required, call Translating and Interpreting Service (TIS National) on 131 450, and ask the operator to contact us.

Older Persons Advocacy Network (OPAN)

An advocate is an independent person who helps you understand your rights and supports you to sort out your aged care concerns. They can help you talk to your provider about a problem or raise a complaint with us. This free and confidential help is available from the Older Persons Advocacy Network (OPAN). Call OPAN on 1800 700 600 (free call) or visit opan.org.au.

A new rights-based Aged Care Act

The new Aged Care Act will put the rights of older people first. It includes a Statement of Rights for older people accessing aged care services. This fact sheet is a plain language summary of those rights.

About the Statement of Rights

The Australian Government is changing Australia's aged care laws. The Aged Care Act 2024 (the new Act) has a Statement of Rights. This explains what rights older people have when accessing aged care services funded by the Australian Government. The Statement of Rights will replace the current Charter of Aged Care Rights on 1 July 2025.

The full Statement of Rights from the new Act is at the end of this fact sheet.

What the Statement of Rights means for you

The Statement of Rights will help make sure you are at the centre of your aged care.

It gives you the right to:

- make your own decisions about your own life
- have your decisions not just accepted, but respected
- get information and support to help you make decisions
- communicate your wishes, needs and preferences
- feel safe and respected
- have your culture and identity respected
- stay connected with your community.

Independence, choice and control

You have the right to make your own decisions and have control over:

- what funded aged care services you use
- how you access funded aged care services and who provides them
- your money and belongings.

You have the right to get support to make these decisions if you need to.

You also have the right to choose how you live, even if there is some personal risk. For example, choices about your social life and close relationships.

Fair access

You have the right to a fair and accurate assessment to find out what funded aged care services you need.

This assessment should be done in a way that suits you. It should respect your:

- culture and background
- personal experience and any trauma
- cognitive conditions, such as dementia.

You also have the right to get the kind of care you need, when you need it. This includes palliative care and end-of-life care.

Safety and quality

You have the right to safe, quality and fair funded aged care services that treat you with dignity and respect.

This includes the right to access funded aged care services that:

- value and support your identity, culture and background
- respect your experience, including any trauma
- are accessible and meet your needs
- are free from violence, abuse and neglect.

You have the right to access funded aged care services from:

- workers with the right training, skills and experience
- providers that meet all the conditions under the aged care laws.

If you feel unsafe when accessing aged care, you can get free support from lawyers, social workers and other specialists. Visit the Attorney-General's website for more information on protection against elder abuse.

Respect for your privacy and information

Your provider must:

- respect your personal privacy
- protect your personal information, such as information about your health and finances
- allow you to choose when your personal information can be given to someone else, such as an advocate or a lawyer.

You have the right to get records and information about your rights and the funded aged care services you use. This includes how much they cost.

Communication that meets your needs

You have the right to:

- get information in a way you understand
- give feedback.

You have the right to communicate in the language or method you prefer. This includes using interpreters or communication aids if you need them.

You also have the right to meet with your provider and your supporters in a way that suits you. That might mean meeting at a time of day that works best for you.

Support to raise issues quickly and fairly

When there are issues with your funded aged care services, you have the right to:

- get support from your provider
- complain without fear or being punished
- get a quick and fair response to your complaints.

Support and connection with people and community

You may need support to understand your rights, make decisions or make a complaint. You have the right to get this support from an independent advocate or someone else you choose.

You have the right to communicate with your advocate or support person at any time you like.

Providers should respect the role of the people who are important to you. For example, family, friends and carers.

You have the right to stay connected with:

- the people who are important to you
- your community, including by taking part in leisure or cultural activities
- your pets.

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples have a right to stay connected with their community, Country and Island Home.

How to make sure your rights are upheld

Your provider must understand and follow the Statement of Rights. If they don't, you can make a complaint to the Complaints Commissioner.

You can make a complaint online, by phone or by letter. Visit the Aged Care Quality and Safety Commission website for more information.

If you need support to make a complaint or find information, call the Older Persons Advocacy Network (OPAN) on 1800 700 600.

OPAN has free, independent and confidential advocates to help you.
